The True Scale of the Tragedy in Southport

How such attacks bring humanity closer to a civilizational war

On July 29, 2024, three young girls, aged six, seven, and nine, were killed, and eight others were injured in a knife attack in Southport, UK.

"(CNN) — The United Kingdom was left shaken after three children were stabbed to death and eight others were injured in a knife attack in Southport, in one of the worst assaults against children in the country in decades." [1] A teenage suspect has been arrested for the assault, which one witness described to be "like a scene from a horror movie." [2]

But what could this tragedy truly mean for all of humanity? What subsequent tragic events has it already triggered? And who are the true killers of children in our society? These are the questions we are going to answer.

The first thing that draws attention is the immediate, well-organized outburst of aggression against Muslims which ensued immediately after the rumor spread that the 17-year-old child killer was a Muslim. A wave of organized protests swept through many cities in England and Northern Ireland within 5 days. Everyone claims that the protests were triggered by a brutal attack on children. However, let's get down to the facts. What really provoked the subsequent unrest?

The large-scale protests quickly took on anti-Islamic and anti-immigrant tones. These two points were the focus of the fake message: “the attacker was a 17-year-old Muslim migrant named Ali al-Shakati.” According to The Daily Telegraph, the wave of disinformation was launched by Channel3 Now, a YouTube-based news website created by users in Izhevsk, Russia, 11 years ago. [3] This website was the first to publish the name of the alleged killer.

According to The Daily Telegraph, the wave of disinformation was initiated by Channel3 Now, a YouTube-based news website created by users in Izhevsk, Russia, 11 years ago.

Another British media outlet, The Daily Mail, also reported a "Russian trail" in spreading the misinformation. [4] Russian Telegram channels quickly picked up on this fake news, specifying that the attacker was from the Middle East.

In Britain, a migrant with a knife killed two children and injured nine others.
The attack took place in the city of Southport. A knife-wielding refugee from Syria stormed into a facility where dance and yoga classes were being held for children and started stabbing everyone while shouting “Allahu Akbar!” A total of 11 children were affected, two died on the spot, and three others sustained serious injuries. All of the affected children were under the age of ten.

Several Russian Telegram channels have made identical posts, alleging that the killer was Muslim. [5, 6, 7]

An Islamist has killed Christian children once again.
In the city of Southport, terrorist Ali Al-Shakati carried out a massacre as part of his jihad against "infidels." The terrorist attacked children in a dance school with a knife, while shouting "Allahu Akbar." Two children were brutally murdered, seven children and two adults were injured.
The killer has been arrested, he turned out to be an illegal immigrant who arrived in England by boat a year ago.

Several Russian Telegram channels have made nearly identical posts, alleging that the killer was Muslim.[8]

But unfortunately, they weren't the only ones.The main platform for spreading the fake information was the X social network. According to British media, another profile was accused of creating the first post with the false name of the Southport terrorist. It belongs to Bernadette Spofforth, (@Artemisfornow on X). Her posts there often reach over a million views.

My two youngest children went to holiday club this morning in Southport for a day of fun only for a migrant to enter and and murder/fatally wound multiple children. My kids are fine . They are shocked and in hysterics but they are safe . My thoughts are with the other 30 kids and families that are suffering right now

A post by Bernadette Spofforth (@Artemisfornow on X) following the tragedy in Southport.

The fake statement that Ms. Spofforth published about the Southport attacker was quickly disseminated and picked up by a disparate group of influential conspiracy theorists and profiles with a track record of spreading anti-immigration and far-right ideas.[9]

*"A false name – attributed to the 17-year-old accused of killing three little girls as well as injuring eight other children and two adults – spread like wildfire across X, formerly known as Twitter.

Many of these accounts have purchased blue ticks, which means their posts feature more prominently on others' feeds."[10] Some of these accounts sharing disinformation garnered over a million views per post and reshared posts multiple times a day.

"It wasn't just this fake name either. There were false claims the attacker was a refugee who arrived in the UK by boat in 2023 and unfounded speculation he is Muslim. Some of these posts were accompanied by Islamophobic and racist hate."[10]

Once again, two focal points emerged: Muslim and migrant. It is as if an invisible hand is orchestrating the situation through precise and targeted information delivery. This raises the next logical question: Why was unverified information picked up so quickly despite an official statement from the Chief Prosecutor of the Crown Prosecution Service that "criminal proceedings against the defendant are active and that he has the right to a fair trial"?

"It is extremely important that there should be no reporting, commentary, or sharing of information online which could in any way prejudice these proceedings."[11]

The only information the police released about the suspect shortly after the attack was that he was 17 years old, from Banks in Lancashire, and born in Wales. [12] Authorities did not release the suspect's name, as, by law, it cannot be revealed until the individual turns 18. [13] The same restrictions apply to the mass media. Neither British authorities nor reputable local publications reported the suspect's religion. Moreover, a police statement issued the next day indicated that the alleged name of the suspect circulating on social media was incorrect.[14]

The agency urged Internet users "not to speculate on details of the incident while the investigation is ongoing."[14] On August 1, the detainee was charged with murders and attempted murders.
In an email to Reuters and in a July 30 statement, a Merseyside Police spokesperson said: "A name has been shared on social media in connection with the suspect in the incident in Southport. This name is incorrect and we would urge people not to speculate on details of the incident while the investigation is ongoing."[15]

Despite all the efforts of the authorities to prevent the spread of false information, the fake news had already garnered 27 million views by the time it was officially debunked. This confirms the fact that a premeditated informational terror attack with far-reaching consequences and not immediately obvious real objectives was carried out. Twenty-seven million people were subjected to an informational terror attack, with all the resulting effects on their mental and physical health. And this is just a small part of a well-orchestrated terrorist act.

"It's become a familiar pattern of events: a violent, terrifying attack unfolds, innocent people are killed, and social media is set alight with unfounded – and often incorrect – accusations about the assailant's identity and what the motivation was.
Think back to the stabbing attacks in Sydney earlier this year, falsely blamed on a Jewish student, or even the assassination attempt on Donald Trump in July.
It's the same with Monday's attack on a children's holiday dance and yoga session in Southport, England."[10]

This is a familiar pattern of manipulating public opinion that anti-cult terrorists have been perfecting on the global community for the last 30 years, using their agents in the media and social networks. The ideological center of anti-cult terrorists and the leading proponent of Nazi propaganda methods worldwide is RACIRS – the Russian Association of Centers for the Study of Religions and Sects.

We see that it was not peaceful citizens who picked up the spread of false information and took to the streets to incite violence, but primarily representatives of far-right movements. In other words, representatives of various forms of fascism and neo-Nazism. We all know where their actions lead—oppression, violence, repression, and genocide against groups of people deemed "inferior" by the far-right. In this case, the "inferior" are Muslims and migrants.

The protests are believed to have been inspired and organized by the far-right organization "English Defence League" (EDL). Its leader, Stephen Yaxley-Lennon – who uses the alias Tommy Robinson – focused on spreading his message on social media platforms, where he has a sizeable following. An influencer on X associated with Yaxley-Lennon, who posts under the name of "Lord Simon", was among the first to publicly call for nationwide protests. [16, 17] But who inspired him to take these actions? Who manipulated him as a pawn in their game? These questions are not difficult to answer after watching "The IMPACT" documentary.

"The IMPACT" Documentary

It is notable that in November 2023, the social media platform X reinstated the account of the previously banned far-right activist and convicted criminal, Stephen Yaxley-Lennon, known as Tommy Robinson [18]. Stephen Christopher Yaxley-Lennon (born November 27, 1982), better known as Tommy Robinson, is a British anti-Islam campaigner and one of the UK's most prominent far-right activists. Robinson served four prison terms between 2005 and 2019. Robinson's criminal record also includes convictions for violence, financial and immigration frauds, cocaine possession with intent to supply, and public order offences. [19]

Can one believe that such a person was so moved by the death of children that he couldn't stand this and organized protests?

The surge in extreme rightwing activity in the past week has led to a fivefold increase in threats to Muslims, such as of rape and death, and a threefold increase in hate crime incidents, a national monitoring group said on Sunday. Tell Mama is a monitoring group that tracks complaints of anti-Muslim hate crimes. The charity says people have been left too scared to leave their homes, with women wearing head coverings such as the hijab facing threats in the street. A total of 10 mosques have faced attacks or threats, including Islamic places of worship in Southport, Liverpool and Hartlepool. [20]

Keir Starmer called the protesters in Rotherham "far-right thuggery" and "marauding gangs intent on law breaking," adding that both the hotel residents and staff were in absolute fear. He also added that "this violent mob do not represent our country." "If you target people because of the colour of their skin, or their faith, then that is far right, and I'm prepared to say so," emphasized Starmer. [21, 22]

The Mayor of South Yorkshire, Oliver Coppard, stated that he was "utterly appalled" by the scenes of violence in Rotherham. "What we're seeing is not protest, it is brutal thuggery directed against some of the most vulnerable people in our society," he said in a statement. "The people carrying out these attacks do not represent the beautiful, brilliant place and people I know...

We will come after those carrying out this violence with the full force of the law," he stressed. [23]

Approximately the same words are used to describe the "League" by residents of the cities where protests are taking place. "Those people are not our city, they don't represent us... It was far-right, thieving thugs. Just absolute scum." [24]

Screenshots from The Guardian news portal

Let's ask ourselves a simple question: who is the true organizer of these protests? Will violent protests, riots, or aggressive actions against each other help to protect children's lives? They will only lead to an increase in aggression in society and further murders of innocent people. Who benefits from this?

The murder of children and the subsequent wave of hatred and aggression toward Muslims and migrants is the result of the actions of the true instigators of these killings — anti-cultists. They easily play with our children's lives to achieve their goals, because they know what emotional resonance such tragedies stir in society. This drastically reduces the public's ability to think critically, making it much easier to manipulate them.

After all, people quickly forgot about the children who died, except for those directly affected by the tragedy and those who were shocked through the media publications. The majority quickly shifted focus to the conflict between civilians and the government. Few people stopped to ponder: what drove a quiet teenager from a Christian family to commit this monstrous crime? Even fewer heard and remembered that he was a Christian. In fact, that message was drowned out by the much more powerful news flow that the killer was a Muslim. Most people who learned about the tragedy in Southport retained that particular emphasis in their consciousness. That's how easily public opinion can be manipulated, with negative images implanted in their minds, which fuel hatred, intolerance, and violence against one another. On the contrary, the very fact of such an organized spread of misinformation and the ensuing riots should alert us to look for the true causes of the events.

Can such acts be committed in the name of protecting children?

The Southport tragedy, as well as the riots and violence that followed it, are nothing more than another link in a chain of consecutive events organized by anti-cult terrorists who are leading society to their ultimate goal – A CIVILIZATIONAL WAR.

It is a concrete confrontation between the Islamic world and the rest of the world, which today, by all indications, is being artificially inflamed by a hidden destructive force — global anti-cultism. Allow me to provide some context on global events. Pay attention to the trends of recent decades. We observe systematic violations of the rights of Muslims worldwide — in Europe, America, and Russia. In the United States, according to data from the Council on American-Islamic Relations, there has been a sharp increase in hate crimes against Muslims and growing activity from anti-Muslim hate groups in recent years. Anti-Islamic protests that erupted in the United Kingdom in recent weeks have become a continuation of the rise in Islamophobic incidents and rhetoric observed in the UK in recent years.

"We have produced one of the most detailed studies in the U.K. with actual case numbers and classifications of anti-Muslim hate cases covering a decade from 2012-2022. This is a decade worth of data from assisting, supporting and ensuring that British Muslims get access to justice. We hope that this data inspires others to focus on this area of work and to bring to the awareness of many, that anti-Muslim hate needs to be peacefully challenged, monitored and countered wherever it manifests itself.
If we are to ensure a society where social cohesion is strengthened, then tackling anti-Muslim hatred is an important area of work that needs our collective effort."

A report published in 2023 found that between 2012 and 2022, Islamophobic incidents in the UK doubled.[26] In March, Muslims in Britain said they were too scared to leave their homes after dark as new data from the London-based charity Islamophobia Response Unit (IRU) revealed that Islamophobic incidents have soared 365 percent since Hamas attacked Israel on Oct. 7. Certain media outlets have also been accused of inciting Islamophobia and endangering the safety of Muslims across the country.

A landmark report by the Centre for Media Monitoring analysing over 48,000 online articles and 5,500 broadcast clips, has revealed almost 60% of online media articles and 47% of television clips associate Muslims and/or Islam with negative aspects or behaviour.

CfMM Report "British Media's Coverage of Muslims and Islam (2018-2020)"

- Almost 60% of articles across all publications were identified as associating negative aspects and behaviour with Muslims or Islam.
- Over 1 in 5 articles had a primary focus on Terrorism/Extremism.
- Right-leaning and religious publications have the greater percentage of articles demonstrating a bias against Muslim belief or behaviour OR which generalise or misrepresent Muslim belief or behaviour.
- The themes under which articles are categorised show there is a greater bias against Muslims and Islam under the topics of Religion, Terrorism/Extremism.
- 47% of all clips showed Muslims and/or Islam in a manner which presented negative aspects and/or behaviour.
- Right-wing pundits were on many occasions left unchallenged when making generalisations against Muslims including promoting falsehoods. [27]

One can't help but make an association with the terrorist attack at the Crocus City Hall in Moscow on March 22, 2024 – the violence and persecution of Muslims and migrants that immediately followed. During the first week after the terrorist attack at Crocus City Hall, there was a sharp rise in anti-Muslim and anti-migrant sentiment. Moreover, anti-migrant raids were conducted by the police, often brutally, and in violation of human rights and the Russian Constitution, up to and including forced deportation.

"Since those detained on suspicion of the Crocus City Hall attack were Tajik citizens, and the Islamic State terrorist organization claimed responsibility for organizing the attack, Islamophobia towards all Muslims has sharply increased across various Russian cities. There have been more cases of online incitement and violence from both civilians and law enforcement. "Raids" by nationalists began, who demanded immigrants to be fired or forced women to remove their headscarves. Human rights activists note that police detentions were conducted with gross violations of the current laws and established procedures, and with the use of physical violence."

"...The Russian human rights organization Memorial is aware of a number of cases (the actual number may be significantly higher) where the FSB selected random Muslim individuals and fabricated terrorism charges against them. The fabrication was accompanied by torture to extract confessions; weapons and explosive devices were also planted. The human rights organization notes that it is extremely difficult to generate public outcry over such illegal actions due to the growing Islamophobia in society."

We discussed the persecution of Muslims in Russia after the terrorist attack in Crocus City Hall in more detail in the article "At the Threshold of Civilizational War." The scenarios are similar like carbon copies written by a single hand – the hand of a maniac playing with human lives, who aims to establish absolute power over the whole world. "Guilt by association" without providing evidence is one of the favorite techniques of anti-cult terrorists to incite intolerance against entire communities of people. Even if that community includes nearly 2 billion people. Many justify intolerance against Muslims as a natural consequence of terrorist attacks. However, few think about the true causes of these attacks, their preparation and deliberate provocations created by members of certain organizations.

"Physical acts of terrorism are another terrifying tool of anticultism for enslaving the consciousness of society. Anticultists orchestrate physical terrorist acts to ensure their own total domination in the country and to gain full control over top leaders. The recent horrific terrorist act in Russia is an example of that." "With the terrorist attack on March 22nd, 2024, anticult organizations literally brought Islam to its knees, significantly weakening a religious competitor on their territory. This way, they have further strengthened the dominant position of Orthodox Christianity in the country and divided society to the utmost. Obviously, this attack was aimed against Muslims. Immediately after the act of terrorism, thousands of migrants belonging to this religion, not just citizens of Tajikistan, were expelled from Russia. What do anticult organizations get from that? They have instantly and for long got rid of dozens of thousands of freedom-loving people who at any moment could demand compliance with their rights, thereby threatening anticultists' total power. They have expelled a huge number of migrants who worked in Russia and benefited its economy. As for the Muslims who stay in Russia, they have experienced and keep experiencing inhumane treatment."

There's one more non-random coincidence in both cases. The terrorist attack at Crocus City Hall took place on March 22, 2024 – the day after the Central Election Commission announced the election results on March 21, 2024. Many noticed that the terrorist attack at Crocus overshadowed Vladimir Putin's victory in the presidential election, causing the public to doubt the president-elect's ability to protect the people. Here is how the Russian news outlet lenta.ru commented on the terrorist attack in the UK: The UK is Gripped by Mass Riots. Local residents beat migrants after one of them attacked children [28]

Lenta.ru: The riots have lowered the rating of British Prime Minister Keir Starmer

"A month after the Labour Party came to power in the UK, the country was gripped by mass riots. Naturally, the riots could not but had an impact on the ratings of Keir Starmer, who marked one month in power on August 4. According to polls, his approval rating has plummeted by 16 points, with only 35 percent of citizens approving of his work and 32 percent disapproving. Initially, the government made little comment on the tragedy: the British Home Office did not provide any information on the incident, did not name the murderer and the circumstances of the crime, which led to the emergence of a variety of versions and speculations." [28] The article was written on Aug. 5, after multiple official statements that the suspect was neither a migrant nor Muslim.

Merseyside Police said Wednesday that they charged a 17-year-old boy from the nearby village of Banks with three counts of murder and 10 counts of attempted murder, as well as possession of a "bladed article." The suspect appeared at Liverpool Magistrates' Court on Thursday and was named as Axel Rudakubana, PA Media reported. Reporting restrictions would usually mean the boy could not be named as he is under 18, but – since Rudakubana will turn 18 on August 7– Judge Andrew Menary decided the restrictions could be lifted early, PA said. [29]

The suspect arrested in connection with the fatal stabbing of three children in northwest England was born in the UK, according to police, contrary to online posts claiming he was an asylum seeker who arrived in the country by boat in 2023. [15]

However, there is an even harsher topic that is being actively promoted in the media. It sounds as follows: This election has exposed the cancer of sectarianism

While Keir Starmer is celebrating getting the keys to 10 Downing Street, not all is rosy for the UK Labour Party. It may have bagged a historic landslide victory, but there are reasons for it to be concerned. The growing sectarianism in some of its own traditional seats, for instance. [30] The fact that out of 650 constituencies, 5 constituencies elected independent, pro-Palestinian candidates, some commentators have described as evidence of "sectarian" politics.

Recent polling shows that 46 per cent of all British Muslims share some sympathy with Hamas

Now, sectarianism is taking to the campaign trail. In May's local elections, pro-Palestine candidates triumphed in heavily-Muslim communities across the country, with barnstorming victories for independent slates in places like Blackburn, Oldham, and Bradford. Could this be the year that political sectarianism finally rears its ugly head on the national stage? It's certainly not impossible. [31]

In the aftermath of this election, much of the focus will be on Labour's majority and the Conservatives' catastrophic defeat. But the key takeaway should be that there is something seriously wrong with the state of our democracy. Growing sectarianism is a crisis we cannot afford to ignore. [30]

Journalist Zoe Strimpel said on 6 July that Britain was "succumbing to sectarianism". "As a Jew, this election was always to be feared; it's just that the enemy is not Labour anymore, but the 'independent', 'Palestine solidarity' candidates," she wrote in the Telegraph. "It's hard not to feel a pulse of fear and loathing when one sees how our once-great liberal democracy has been hijacked to serve the agendas of people who appear to show solidarity with a regime heading an army of caliphatic Islamist butchers." [32]

"...without decisive action, sectarian politics is here to stay." [33]

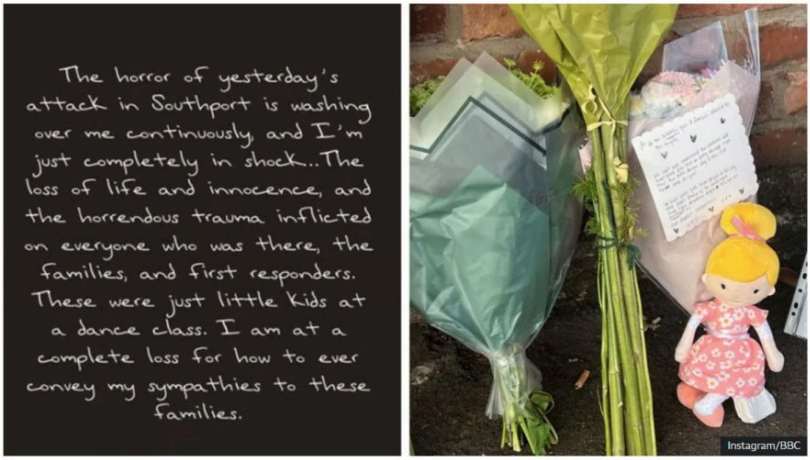
Who benefits from citizens doubting the credibility of the elected government? Who labels groups as "sects," identifying new targets for destruction? The answer is simple. Only those who have placed themselves above any authority and have skillfully manipulated people's consciousness for a long time, regardless of their social status or position. They do not care who is in power. They will destabilize any government. Their goal is the destabilization of society in every aspect. These arbiters of human fate need mass confrontation to see how ready the people are to initiate a CIVILIZATIONAL WAR with billions of casualties, so those behind it can achieve their goal — totalitarian power. And they do this with our hands, through our ignorance.

Several billion must sacrifice their blood so that the guys from RACIRS can smile while watching the news reports, sipping coffee, in absolute safety.

RACIRS representatives in Russia

How much longer will we, as a society, remain helpless puppets in the hands of these maniacs? It is important to remember that anti-cult terrorists are waging a war against all of humanity exclusively in the information field, by manipulating authorities, law enforcement, and public opinion. It is equally important to remember that any terror attack is always aimed at the entire society, at everyone who learns about the attack. The specific targets are merely the first victims of this atrocity.

Let's return to the murder of young children in Southport. The victim of the attack was not chosen by chance. The children died while attending a class dedicated to Taylor Swift, an "idol" of modern pop music with hundreds of millions of followers and fans worldwide, mostly young people and teenagers. The choice was deliberate, just as the potential killers for this terror attack were predetermined using the method of puzzle coding, which is explained in more detail in "The IMPACT" documentary. This method of manipulation and control over people involves several waves of informational influence on human consciousness. The first wave of such influence consists of constant reports of mass shootings in schools or other terror attacks, with detailed descriptions of the shooter's profile and the specifics of the violence committed. These newshooks are presented with embedded manipulative messages and are repeatedly broadcast in the media, especially in regions where the next terror attack is planned. As for Taylor Swift, she, of course, could not remain indifferent to the horrific event.



The horror of yesterday's attack in Southport is washing over me continuously, and I'm just completely in shock...The loss of life and innocence, and the horrendous trauma inflicted on everyone who was there, the families, and first responders. These were just little kids at a dance class. I am at a complete loss for how to ever convey my sympathies to these families.
Instagram/BBC
Swift said the "horrendous trauma" had left her at a "complete loss"

A post by Taylor Swift published on her social media page after the Southport tragedy

In her Instagram post, she said that she was “completely in shock” and “horror” of the attack was “washing over her”. [31] The post was viewed by millions of her fans. Millions of people around the world were instantly informed of the terrorist attack. Naturally, they began searching the media for reports of the Southport tragedy, and they were informed about it in a certain way – with subliminal implants used in the puzzle coding method. In the consciousness of millions of fans and followers who subconsciously seek fame and recognition, an image emerged of how this “fame” can be quickly achieved, or “what you should do to get your idol to know about you and pay attention to you”. The worst part is that millions of children began to imagine themselves in the shoes of a murderer or a victim. After all, reports of Taylor Swift being “shocked” by a knife attack on her fans has become the most talked about topic for her fans. Seems absurd?

However, if experts were to talk to children to find out what images came to them when they read or watched reports about the deaths of children in Southport, experts would find that one portion of children mentally see how they are killing, while other children have images of being killed. And if this image is cemented by means of puzzle coding, similar attacks will be repeated in America and other countries. Because there are millions of Taylor Swift fans around the world, and those millions have already been infected with toxic information that has begun to mold the new killers. At that, all of them have another image in their consciousness – the image of a Muslim as a killer and an enemy. Can you imagine how many millions of people around the world started hating Muslims and became fearful and hostile towards them? Even if the fact is established that the murderer is not a Muslim, no one will remember that. We have seen how much effort has been made to fixate in the public consciousness the image of a Muslim as a terrorist, and all subsequent aggression has been directed against people who profess Islam.

What is the scale of impact of such an informational terror attack?

Tens of millions of people subjected to the informational terror attack in the first 24 hours experienced extreme stress. This significantly increased their risks of heart attacks, strokes, cancer, depression, suicide, and post-traumatic stress disorder. Hundreds of millions of Taylor Swift fans have been infected with subliminal implants aimed at killing themselves and others. The entire Muslim world, nearly 2 billion people, watched with pain and tension another round of aggression directed against their faith, values, and the lives of their fellow believers. Just 10 days after the tragedy in Southport, on August 7, 2024, Taylor Swift fans were shocked by the announcement of the cancellation of her three concerts scheduled in Vienna on August 8, 9, and 10, due to a planned terror attack. According to the official version, the suspects may be linked to the terrorist group ISIS.[35]

Taylor Swift Says Canceling Eras Tour Shows in Vienna Due to Terrorist Plot Was 'Devastating' and 'Filled Me With a New Sense of Fear'

According to the investigation, a 19-year-old man, suspected of planning a terror attack at an upcoming concert by American singer Taylor Swift, pledged an oath of allegiance to the Islamic State group.[35]

“Once again, Muslims are preparing a terror attack against us and those dear to us” — this is what will be ingrained in the consciousness of hundreds of millions of people worldwide. Through detailed media coverage of this event and the ensuing investigations, closely followed by the singer’s fans, new waves of information encoding will follow, implanting yet another puzzle piece into the subconscious of those whose hands the true murderers are preparing to use for the next attacks.

Indeed, if a session of regressive hypnosis were conducted with the teenager who committed the attack in Southport and those detained on suspicion of the terror attack at the singer’s concert, it could be discovered that they all underwent puzzle coding. Thus, it would be possible to identify the sources of information through which the dominant image was formed, turning the teens into instruments of murder. However, since specialists currently lack an understanding of how these “pawns” are created, all the hatred and condemnation of society are directed at Muslims, who have become the latest victims of anti-cult terrorists.

Meanwhile, the true killers sip their coffee in peace, reveling in how children stab other children. To simply call them child murderers is to say nothing. Words cannot describe these sadists, who have surpassed all maniacs in human history. Just imagine what beasts are behind the organization of all these terror acts — killing children as a motive to provoke confrontation in society. Among them, there are plenty of journalists all over the world who write paid articles according to scripted codes, and editors, who allow to publish articles with unchecked and obviously false defamatory information.

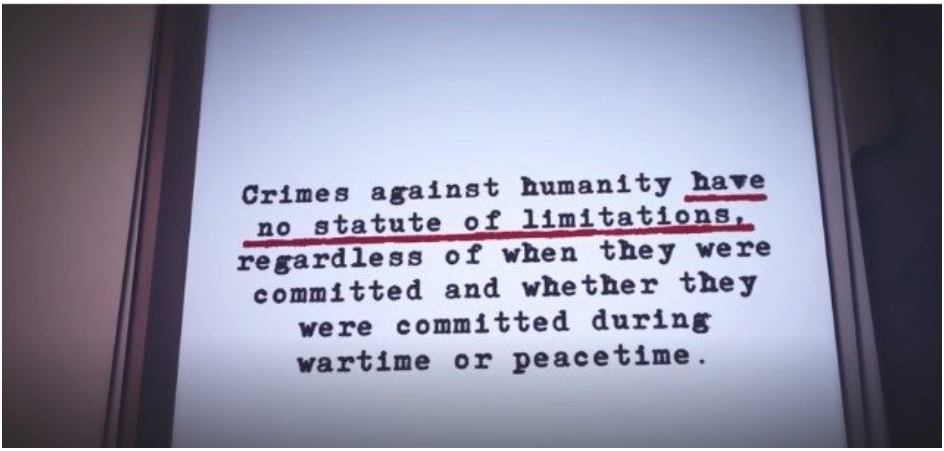
“The IMPACT” documentary can help to realize the aftermath and the severity of the laws under which such criminal acts are already judged.



“The IMPACT” Documentary

If the terrorist attack planned by anti-cultists at Taylor Swift’s concert had been carried out, with the mass murder of her fans and the singer herself, it is frightening to imagine the scale of the protests and riots that would have broken out around the world. In America, where 53% of adults are her fans, let alone teenagers. In America, where the level of aggression is already heating up and the idea of civil war, sown by anti-cultists, is ripening in people's consciousness, which means that people are ready for clashes.

What a wave would have swept over Europe, after what we have witnessed happenning in England – a new terrible wave of aggression against Muslims. Imagine what would have happened under serious confrontations in Europe, where there are million of Muslims able to defend themselves with arms in their hands? And against them, other armed people would rise. Whose lives would be shattered? Ours. We must face the facts. The immediate plan of anti-cultists is to destroy at least 3 billion people in a conflict between the Muslim and non-Muslim worlds. What are 3 billion human lives to these murderers, if they've been killing so many innocent children for so long? With each new terror attack and assassination attempt, the implementation of the plans of these subhuman anti-cult terrorists and those who stand behind them rapidly approaches. Let us recall the stages of this plan.

"According to the multi-stage strategy of global anti-cultism, the uprising of the Muslim world is the third step in their final strategy to achieve global chaos. As I mentioned earlier, the first step is a civil war in America. The second step is the disintegration of the European Union, accompanied by the escalation of anti-Muslim sentiments and critical violations of Muslims' rights. The third step is large-scale Muslim uprisings in Europe, followed by the involvement of major Islamic states under the pretext of protecting their fellow believers."

Dr. A. Egon Cholakian. The Crossroads

This is the true reason why children died in Southport. And it will continue until the real killers are held accountable for their crimes. Why must children pay with their blood so that these murderers can enjoy their coffee, feeling like demigods who control the world and people's destinies? There is more children's blood on the anti-cultists than on the Nazis during World War II. However, the dock is already prepared for them, and there's room for everyone. For everyone who abetted these murderers of children, these organizers of wars and terror attacks. For everyone who facilitated the implementation of crimes against all humanity.
